Customer Experiences

Colorado Environmental Film Festival

"Our website acts as an important conduit to inspire learning, and empower change in the environment. With the help of Planet Media, the important message of the films and environmental education will have a greater impact. We are honored to work with a company that sees the value in our natural world and bringing diverse environmental issues to the public. Now, more than ever, it is critical for people of all ages to have opportunities to learn about and connect with the environment where we live. The film festival is the first step towards building successful communities, a vibrant economy, and a healthy environment".

Contagious Media, LLC

"Planet Media's team of professionals helped us create a custom designed website for our Charter School client. They were easy to work with and assisted us in developing a sophisticated editing backend to the website that was exactly what our client needed - with no compromises. We especially appreciated their attention to the detail of this project, their timeliness, and full competence in programming".

"A friend referred me to Planet Media. They were not only helpful and professional, but patient and understanding all along the way. For a computer neophyte, they walked me through the process. I am very impressed with their work, and highly recommend them".
